

THE BRECKENRIDGE OUTDOOR EDUCATION CENTER'S ANNUAL

WILDERNESS CAMP

A CANOE TRIP IN RUBY & HORSETHIEF CANYON, CO

July 19 – 23, 2010

What is Wilderness Camp?

This course is for young men and women, 16 – 25 years old, with developmental and learning disabilities. For summer 2010, Wilderness Camp is heading west on a multi-day canoe trip down Ruby and Horsethief canyons of the Colorado River. This gorgeous twenty-five mile long section winds its way through canyons known for bald eagles, geologic formations, amazing scenery and great camping.

This trip is designed for many ability levels; however, the BOEC requires that all students be independent with self-care tasks. Students will have the opportunity to develop social skills, teamwork, leadership qualities, expedition experience, and independence that will transfer into everyday life. Activities include flat water canoeing, hiking, cooking, and camping during the course however, the emphasis will be on having fun in a structured wilderness setting.

Cost: $700 (Scholarship information is included in the application packet)

Included in trip cost:

Food, specialty gear (such as canoes, paddles, life jackets, tents, etc.), transportation while on course and 24-hour supervision and instruction by BOEC staff.
